

CHARGE ONE TWO IN 100 AT CAMP MILLS, DRAFTED FROM ARMY $5,000 IN BANKS BROKEN BLACKERS

Rainbow Division Expects to Reach Full Strength of 25,000 Saturday.

CAMP MILLS, GARDEN CITY, Sept. 4.—When the transport of the One Hundred and Sixty-ninth Infantry, the old Sixty-ninth, reached out to camp this morning, the three hundred and thirty-three men, who were drafted from the streets of New York, were met by a full complement of officers. The regiment, as far as the human element is concerned, is practically ready for the transport that will carry it to the great adventure.

Machine guns, trench mortars and other equipment necessary for a regiment in this modern war will be supplied to the organization when it reaches France. All that remains now is the elimination of several undesirable elements among the men, the breaking in of the new officers, and the hardening of new recruits and it will be "France ahead" with a vengeance.

There is a feeling all through the ranks that the day of departure is not far distant and it is confidently predicted that the order to "strike camp" and entrain for the transport may come along almost any of these fine nights. Then William A. Mann, who will command the Rainbow Division, of which the old Sixty-ninth is an integral part, arrived in camp today with his staff.

Sixteen hundred men of the Illinois artillery from Fort Sheridan, led by Col. Riley of Chicago, also reached here today. Their arrival brought the total number of fighting men to 16,000. Half an hour after the Illinois contingent landed in camp their tents were up, company streets clear and sentries posted.

The Fourth Oklahoma Ambulance Corps, 138 men, commanded by Capt. H. R. Larrue, arrived this afternoon.

A dozen student army aviators celebrated today's arrivals with startling evolutions high over the camp, dipping, twisting, banking at alarming angles, ducking and diving in battle manoeuvres.

The full division, 25,000 strong, will be mobilized here by Saturday night.

SIXTY-NINTH'S NEW OFFICERS ARE HARD AT WORK.

The forty-four new officers assigned to the old Sixty-ninth found that Camp Mills is no "recreation place." They were aroused at the first break of dawn this morning and found themselves being apportioned off to the various companies, and a short time later were out in the grassy fields expending every ounce of energy they had. The increasing of the companies to 25 men each necessitated three additional officers to each unit. The newcomers, with one exception, First and Second Lieutenants. Under the old form of organization each company had a Captain, a First Lieutenant and a Second Lieutenant. They now have a Captain, three First Lieutenants and two Second Lieutenants.

The new captain assigned to the One Hundred and Sixty-ninth Regiment is Martin H. Meany, who served his time as an enlisted man in G Company. The newly assigned Lieutenants are:

First Lieutenants: Basil B. Elmer, Eugene F. Everett, William H. Elrod, James H. Warren Jr., John V. Scorman, Thomas H. Young, Howard W. Arnold, George L. King, William D. Wheeler, Warren R. Hutchinson, Harry E. Crawford, Joseph J. Boag, Beverly H. Becker, Sidney W. Hampton, Harold W. Fendley, Ray C. Dowling, William G. Clive, Jr., Floyd B. Stevens, Michael J. Walsh, Walter Beard, John H. Mallory, Christian L. Kayley, J. Edgar Leach, Jerome L. Hendren, William J. Holman, Jr., Frank A. Horak, Roscoe Doris, Arthur W. Furbush.

Second Lieutenants: Michael E. De Aguiro, Jr., Philip S. Lacy, Raymond H. Newton, Edmund J. Connelly, Schuyler Goodwin, Harper Silliman, Earl K. Metcalf, John H. Freimher, George H. Metcalf, Arthur L. Johnson, Vance Lawderdale, Irvin S. Kline, Arthur L. Bunnell, Basil Broadhurst, William A. Jewell.

In addition to the officers assigned to the One Hundred and Sixty-ninth Infantry 150 others have been temporarily berthed with the old Sixty-ninth until they are distributed among other regiments in the Rainbow Division. The newcomers have been provided with tents in the rear of the company officers' row and are today fraternizing with the hardened commanders of the Fighting Irish outfit.

A PENITENT LOT ARE THE RETURNING "FRENCH LEAVERS."

Of the 160 men who took French leave last week the greater number have returned to the ranks in uniform and without punishment. A few of the missing ones have been listed as deserters and when apprehended they will be court-martialed and sent to military prisons. One of the prime punishments, evolved in an insubordinate movement by one of the officers, is to offend the offending ones chop up railroad ties.

It is remarkable how tough a well seasoned soldier is, in fact, and the young men assigned to the fighting eyes of armed guards with every stroke of the axe that they had been good boys. The guards are not over-sympathetic and are in the punishment of the "Abe Lincoln" unit.

"Honest Abe" could not but find Camp Mills his ally, and the soldiers who were worried by these tyros at the cookman's art.

The "pin-mills" in the vicinity of Camp Mills have received a severe jolt at the hands of the military police. Many complaints had reached camp that soldiers were procuring whiskey through the medium of civilians who purchased the liquor in half-pint and pint bottles and sold it

Others who have answered from view since Registration Day have been located in persons or in homes, according to Capt. O'Leary. Others have died, he said.

The fact that New York's largest population is responsible for many missing conscripts is indicated in the statement of Capt. O'Leary that many of those who registered here for the draft have since moved to distant cities. These, however, were indicated when it was learned they had reported to their respective authorities for examination.

Department of Justice investigation has revealed that of the 2 percent not accounted for many men were residents of lodging houses. Vagrants throughout the country are now being held for Federal examination as a means of establishing the identity of missing conscripts.

The wall of the slacker is still being heard in District Appeals Board headquarters despite the fact that most of the drafted men are now preparing for the call to the training camp. What was pronounced the most flagrant example of the slacker's art went down on the record today, and with it a charge of perjury against Anthony Gollane, a barber, who, it is alleged, swore falsely from behind the skirts of his wife.

Gollane, who is twenty-eight years old, and has a shop at One Hundred and Tenth Street and Amsterdam Avenue, was among those drafted by Local Board No. 156, which holds session in Public School No. 72 at One Hundred and Fifth Street and Lexington Avenue. He was called for examination and pronounced fit for service.

Gollane appeared before the local board on Aug. 24 with supporting affidavits signed by himself and wife, setting forth that he was the sole support of herself and their two children. Local board officials regarded the case as a valid and exemption was granted.

On Sept. 5, Mrs. Fannie Gollane, the wife, appeared before the local board with a statement that Gollane had forced her to swear that he was supporting her and the children. She told the officials that they had no children, but that they had no children. She also stated that she was supporting herself by her own labor in a shirt waist factory, from which she received $15 a week.

to the boys. The military police, who are on duty in all the towns near Camp Mills, visited the hotels last evening and warned the proprietors against the selling of liquor in bottle form. They told the proprietors that the soldiers, places that if liquor were permitted to be carried in bottles that the iron hand of the military would descend upon them.

At tonight's evening parade, when the band strikes up the "Star Spangled Banner" John McCormack, the great Irish tenor, and idol of the old Sixty-ninth, will sing the anthem. It will be an evening parade which the boys will carry in memory to the battlefields of France.

With me, Don't blame the boy—it's all my fault. It's the wonderful, protective mother instinct showing in them.

"What do you think is most to blame—the girl or the soldier?" I asked.

"Neither," she replied promptly. "The parents are to blame. One point on which I, a policewoman, differ with the average policeman is that I do not think the girl who allows herself to be picked up by a soldier or sailor is always innocent. Often she is only ignorant. I didn't know it was any harm to talk to him, she tells me wonderingly. Sometimes she adds, 'He said that he was going away in a few days to fight for me, and asked me if I wouldn't just be nice to him.'"

"I have seen girls, of course, who deliberately stopped men in uniform and spoke to them. Some of the men who approach the girls undoubtedly are attracted at first by a simple desire for companionship. I met two of these little chaps the other night. 'We don't know anybody here,' they said plaintively, and we are alone."

"I have a list of clubs, associations and settlements where young men in uniform can find girl friends under proper guidance, and I refer many to one or more of these places. I take the names and addresses of the girls to whom I talk, and an effort is made to give them some helpful form of social life."

"But the parents are chiefly responsible. In that they do not give their daughters the very simple explanations I give them, instead of making threats and scolding away the confidence of the girls."

"New York needs more policewomen," Mrs. Douglas concluded earnestly. "I was amazed when I found there was none here, for they are in Chicago, Los Angeles and almost all the large cities. While New York is no worse than the others, there are more young people here to protect."

It does not seem to me that before the Grand Jury, she is employed by Bailey's brother.

"But you promised to bring her here," said the prosecutor.

"I am sorry to know anything about these transactions, so why should I bring her here?" was the reply.

Miss Roberts has been the "woman of mystery" in the Seaside Park matter since the investigation by the Grand Jury began.

District Attorney Swan and his assistants are working on the theory that those responsible for the sale of the Seaside Park site at Rockaway to the city obtained a great deal more money than has been reported before the Grand Jury. She is employed by Bailey's brother.

"You are very persistent, aren't you?" he said, but you can say to you that the spirit of Japan burns as ardently and will last as long as may be demanded in this war. We are eager for counsel with you.

"Like the people of America, those of Japan have remained permanently independent because of a real patriotism which, when the occasion demands, never fails. We, like you, protect ourselves against aggression from without and treachery within. We, like you, know nothing of tyranny and despotism and we, like you, are determined that malignance and aggression from the conqueror imposed upon the conquered, shall not become the lot of our people. Neither shall our families and our homes be violated and desecrated by the licentious and brutal forces of a war now transpiring upon the bodies of women and children of the countries they have overrun."
